

3D—The Future Now: Canada’s Libraries, Archives, and Public Memory

A special roundtable co-sponsored by the Bibliographical Society of Canada, Association of Canadian College and University Teachers of English, Canadian Historical Association, Canadian Association of Professional Academic Librarians, and Royal Society of Canada. Guylaine Beaudry (RSC panelist, Concordia University), Guy Berthiaume (Librarian and Archivist of Canada, LAC/BAC), Pam Bjornson (RSC panelist, National Research Council), Patricia Demers, FRSC (RSC panel chair, University of Alberta), Charlotte Gray, FRSC (RSC panelist, Carleton University), and Ernie Ingles, FRSC (University of Alberta).

In the digital era, libraries and archives are as vital as ever to Canadian society. The librarians, archivists, professors, writers, and curators who served on the RSC Panel on Canada’s libraries and archives agreed on the major importance of consulting with Canadians about the services they need and expect. The results of our Canada-wide meetings and the submissions we received underpin The Future Now: Canada’s Libraries, Archives, and Public Memory.
